Heretofore we've handled shoes about as first-class shoe dealers do. Selling only the reliable sorts, calling goods by their right names, while keeping prices slightly below the average.

The Waukenplast Bals we formerly sold for $7 are a fair example of this policy. A few dealers sold a shoe of some general style and quality for same price; more asked $7.50; still more sold an inferior article for $7.

Now we have adopted a radically different policy. These identical $7 Waukenplast will hereafter be $5.50; our finest French calf shoes go for $6, instead of seven fifty; the six-fifty quality now $5; the five are $4; the four-dollar shoes $3.

We are not closing out our shoes, nor has the quality been lowered. We are simply aiming for the largest possible trade in men's and boys' foot wear. Good shoes and low prices will bring it.
